DANIEL M. CARNEY

Chairman of the Board

he Cerebral Palsy Research Foundation of Kansas and our affiliates, Center Industries Corporation and Business Technology Career Opportunities, continue to expand their capabilities both in support services and in employment opportunities for those in our community with disabilities.

It is exciting to see the mission grow in new areas and to assist with the true independence that so many people with disabilities seek.

From new facility renovations at CPRF, exceptional commendations from the Air Force for BTCO's work, to the expansion of our aerospace capabilities at CIC, we have been truly blessed this year in facilitating our mission.

I would like to thank the dedicated staff and Board of Directors for their extraordinary efforts in making these possibilities a reality. In addition, I would like to commend all of the wonderful volunteers who assist us throughout the year – we are very fortunate to have your support.

Most importantly to those we serve, I thank you for your commitment and courage and wish you all the best in 2014.

JOHN F. "JACK" JONAS JR.

Founder and President Emeritus

am very proud of the progress CPRF, CIC, and BTCO have made this year in fulfilling our mission of assisting individuals with disabilities to achieve their chosen path in life.

My vision with the founding of CPRF and CIC was to promote a dual opportunity system – one emphasizing a lifestyle of independence including education, accessibility, affordable housing, transportation, etc., and the other focusing on real employment, where equality in compensation, benefits, and promotion could be attained, regardless of physical ability. We have come a long way over the years in making these opportunities a reality for many.

This year I am probably most proud to ■ see where CIC has come. In doing so, I must acknowledge the wonderful support that our customers have shown over the years, especially Spirit AeroSystems, who entrusted us this year with a substantial sub-contract involving 737 aircraft production.

This will add a brand new capability for CIC that, just a few short years ago, was never thought achievable. In addition, Spirit has been very supportive of our BTCO imaging operations.

pirit has proven to be an exceptional D private sector partner and champion of our mission. We are truly grateful for their unyielding commitment to those we serve.

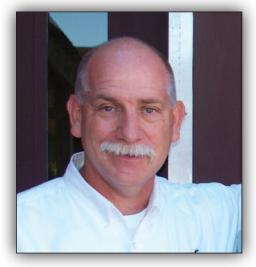

Finally as every year, I would like to thank our tremendous Board, staff, and volunteers who invest both time and resources each and every year in furthering our mission. We could not accomplish what we do without their efforts.

God Bless and have an outstanding 2014.

PATRICK T. JONAS

President and CEO

Each year is one of new adventures and challenges for any organization, and the same is true for CPRF.

This year, we weaved our way through the new KanCare system, expanded our IT training through our School of Adaptive Computer Training to include a classroom in Independence, Kan., grew our wheelchair seating clinic outreach to locations in Garden City, Hays, and Salina, Kan., and began an extensive capital renovation to our therapy and seating facilities, stemming from a long-term planning process that took place more than three years ago. I think it is fair to say that we have been very busy this year.

Through all of the transition and expansion that has taken place, one constant remains every year – the work of a tremendously talented staff, an inspirational group of volunteers, a most generous and dedicated Board of Directors, and a group of funders, from individuals to foundations, to government entities, to community partners, who believe in our mission of providing opportunities for people with disabilities.

We are extremely grateful to all who continue to assist us in facilitating training, employment, and customized services to those with disabilities we have the privilege to serve.

Thank you for an awesome 2013 and we look forward to an even more outstanding 2014.

VOCATIONAL ASSESSMENT

The CPRF Vocational Assessment team helps people identify job-applicable strengths to develop a plan for job training goals and future employment.

To create this plan, our staff uses interest inventories, aptitude measurements, personality outlines, surveys, and interviews to create a profile of each client, which recognizes personal advantages and opportunities to overcome weaknesses.

Staff also provides input on potential CPRF School of Adaptive Computer Training candidates.

JOB PLACEMENT

Despite the economic decline of recent years and the slow recovery process, the CPRF Job Placement department has successfully helped 220 people become employed in the past five years, most of whom found employment after 90 days.

Our staff assists in the job hunt by educating clients on employers' expectaeducating clients on employers' expectations, changes in the job market, and what to expect from the jobs they seek. Another > big part of the initial process is to determine the immediate needs of each client: for instance, if a person must rely on public transportation, they can't work weekends or holidays, which means they must work first shift jobs, which in turn limits the employment search.

Though most clients can be placed in 90 days, a good attitude can dramatically affect the placement process, with some clients finding employment in only 30 days.

Desire, ambition, and a positive attitude help tremendously in the job hunting and learning process, and clients with the right attitude and willingness to learn can be placed much sooner.

Our AmeriCorps Financial Empowerment Services team provides financial education through seminars and workshops, income tax preparation, and disability benefits awareness to low-income individuals and families.

AFES partners with financial institutions, schools, and other non-profit organizations to educate the community on personal finance basics, such as balancing a checkbook, how to save money, household budgeting, and more.

The AFES program began in 2009 with six locations throughout the United States.

Now the program has eight locations and served 4,363 people.

Headquartered at CPRF, the program has members throughout the United States in Boston; Bridgeport, W. Va.; Denver; Lansing, Mich.; Milwaukee; Pensacola, Fla.; and Seattle.

ADULT DAY SERVICES

The CPRF Adult Day program allows adults with disabilities a place to learn functional life skills, such as gardening, physical activity, making friends, and more.

In addition to the learning opportunities, our clients also benefit from volunteers throughout the community: music students from Wichita State University come twice a month for musical therapy, Sedgwick County Master Gardeners enlist the help of our clients to maintain the ADS garden, others bring in groups of therapy dogs, and some volunteers come to spruce up the space by painting or decorating when needed.

Our staff works hard to ensure that every day is fresh and exciting in Adult Day Services.

CASE MANAGEMENT

Our case managers provide services for people who need ongoing, daily living support to manage personal relationships. In addition, case management staff worked diligently throughout the past year to prepare their clients for healthcare restructuring under KanCare.

DANIEL M. CARNEY REHABILITATION ENGINEERING CENTER

A wheelchair is more than a means to get from A to B. The average person we serve spends all day, every day in his/her wheelchair, whether that person is at school, at home, at work, going to the store, or any other number of daily activities.

That is why the right seating system is crucial for people who use wheelchairs. Each client meets with an occupational/physical therapist, who determines wheelchair specifications based on client needs, after which our posture seating technicians at the Carney Center build customized wheelchairs and seating systems that meet each person's individual needs—all under one roof.

In addition to the benefit of decreased communicational margins of error between specialists, this kind of personalized attention ensures that the risk of pressure sores and other adverse conditions of being stationary are minimized.

The Carney Center is the largest of the three posture seating clinics in the state.

MAINTENANCE-LEVEL PHYSICAL THERAPY

Our certified rehabilitative aide helps Timbers residents improve their muscle tone and flexibility through adaptive, accessible fitness equipment, such as parallel bars for supported walking, stationary bikes to build leg muscle, hand cycles for arm work, mats for assisted stretching, a para-gym for weight training, and more. The maintenance therapy program is a division of the Carney Center.

THE TIMBERS

The Timbers is a 100-unit apartment complex built specifically for people with disabilities. Built in 1979, it was the first U.S. Housing and Urban Development property designed to work for people who use wheelchairs.

Each unit features roll-under counters, a roll-in shower, a mirrored stove, wide hallways, accessible switches, and more. The Timbers also has an in-ground pool with a lifeguard on duty and a lift.

Since its construction, The Timbers has won multiple HUD awards and commendations for being a high-performing property.

TIMBER LINES TRANSPORTATION

Timber Lines provides accessible rides for work, doctor's appointments, trips to the grocery store, or wherever else riders need to go. Consistently lauded as one of the most important services for people with disabilities, accessible transportation helps people achieve independence.

SCHOOL OF ADAPTIVE COMPUTER TRAINING

SACT staff helps people from high schoolers to older adults gain useful, practical computer skills to help give them marketable employment skills.

Through a partnership with Unified School District 259 and the Workforce Alliance of South Central Kansas, we provide Microsoft certification classes to district high school juniors and seniors who are in the special education program. In addition to earning Microsoft-approved certifications in Word and Excel, students can also benefit from life-applicable, qualified financial education through the CPRF AmeriCorps Financial Empowerment Services program. The AFES team helps students learn how to balance a checkbook, create a personal budget, how to use credit, and more practical advice.

In addition to students who attend the main campus, the SACT offers remote learning classes for adults in Mayetta and Independence, Kan., and for high school students in special education programs in Butler County.

The SACT Business Advisory Council ensures the school's curriculum for all students remains relevant to current market requirements.

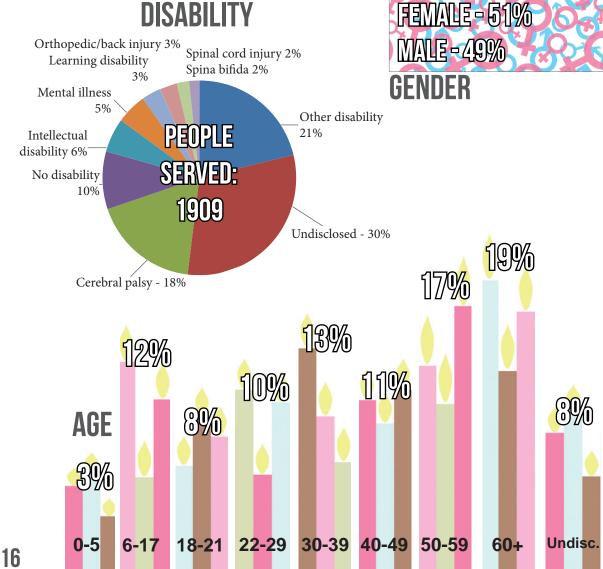

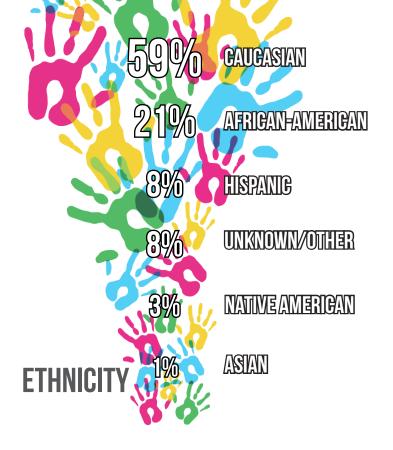

(LrR) Megan Gilpin and Belinda Williams, SACT Youth Program students, show off their certificates for completing the Business Fundamentals for Youth program.

RIVER CITY ROLL 2013: THE SKY IS THE LIMIT

More than 400 guests attended CPRF's 2013 River City Roll: The Sky is the Limit event, helping CPRF soar to new heights in providing equipment for people with disabilities by raising a record $150,000.

The event, held June 29 at the Wichita Country Club, benefits the organization's Equipment Fund, which helps people with disabilities obtain equipment such as wheelchairs, ramps, head arrays, and more.

Last year alone, CPRF/ UCP provided over $400,000 to more than 1,000 Kansans in need of adaptive equipment.

This year's event featured a buffet with international cuisine (including French, Italian, Hawaiian, and Mexican), live and silent auctions, a live band, and more.

Auction items ranged from family portraits, to a dueling chef dinner for eight, to a hot air balloon ride, to an expenses-paid trip to France.

PETER JOHN LOUX AWARD

The Peter John Loux Award provides an annual recognition gift to Kansans who demonstrate exceptional desire and dedication in overcoming their physical or neurological disabilities.

The award is an endowed gift established by the late Richard C. "Pete" Loux in memory of his son Peter John. Mr. Loux, a lifelong advocate for people with disabilities, used his influence as the Kansas House of Representatives Minority Leader to help on Wistuba, Mark Greene, and Carmen Thomas received the 25th annual Peter John Loux Award for their determination in overcoming their disabilities. Each winner received $1,000 and a plaque commemorating their achievement. Wistuba was born blind, but he never let his diagnosis stop him from going to school, playing sports, or even becoming an entrepreneur. He owns the Kansas Capitol Snack Shop – a store he has operated in the state Capitol Building for 37 years.

Due to construction in the Capitol Building, Wistuba has had to move locations three times, which entails moving product, reestablishing business operations, and relearning how to navigate his surroundings by counting his steps and identifying fixtures. Wistuba also speed-walks two or three miles almost every morning to stay in shape, and his success in life has been acknowledged by the Kansas House and Senate, which both passed unanimous resolutions congratulating him on his many years of service in the Capitol.

Born with spina bifida, Greene (of Shawnee) graduated from the University of Kansas in 1994 with a Bachelor's of Fine Arts degree in Theatre Design. Greene has worked for more than 18 years at the KU Lied Center and the Johnson County Community College Carlsen Center. He is also an active member of the Democratic Party and was a Kansas state delegate, representing people with disabilities, at the 2012 Democratic National Convention.

Greene serves as a member of the Johnson County Transportation Commission's Operation's Committee and as co-chair of the Accessibility Sub-Committee. He frequently travels to Topeka as an advocate for people with disabilities.

Greene is currently on dialysis for a kidney condition related to the paralysis caused by spina bifida and is on a waiting list to receive a transplant. He spends three days a week, three hours each time in dialysis.

Thomas was born with bilateral amelia, a disease that left her without arms and with shorter legs. While she can walk for short distances at home, she relies mainly on the use of a specialized wheelchair with a joystick she can operate with her foot.

In addition to her scholarly achievements, she also served as Social Chair and President of "Ablehawks" – a KU disability rights group. Through this program, she attended nearly every KU basketball game at Allen Fieldhouse and became acquainted with Coach Bill Self and some of the players.

Following her graduation, she accepted a job as a para-professional with the Olathe School District, working with children who have autism. She observes, records data, creates visual aids, and enter Industries Corporation, founded by CPRF in 1975, continues to thrive in the manufacturing world.

With a mission shared by CPRF to employ people with disabilities in a competitive work environment, CIC employs more than 250 people who specialize in a wide range of disciplines, including window frame and window belt manufacturing, license plates for the State of Kansas (the company's inaugural contract), and more.

Last year, Center Industries began manufacturing window belts for Spirit AeroSystems, for whom CIC has created window frames for 24 years.

The contract brought 20 new jobs to Center Industries.

with Spirit AeroSystems, Inc., to produce window belts for Spirit's Boeing 737 Next Generation aircraft.
The contract was signed March 2012, and the first window belt was delivered to Spirit in May 2013.

BTCO, INC.

ncorporated in 2001, BTCO shares CPRF's mission of employing people with disabilities in a skilled career path.

The company's primary line of service is document conversion, small- and large-format imaging, and electronic records management.

Among its satisfied customers are the U.S. Air Force Personnel Center, Westar Energy, Kansas Corporation Commission, multiple Kansas state departments, and many others.

In addition to this core service, BTCO also offers open-source web research and precise-tolerance plot printing.

In accordance with SourceAmerica/AbilityOne goals, BTCO maintains a workforce wherein more than 75 percent of its skilled workforce are people with physical disabilities.

All employees earn a competitive wage and receive full fringe benefits, including retirement packages.

Elias Abadayem, BTCO employee, works on a document conversion project,
transforming paper forms into searchable, digital files. Abadayem was also one of the first students of the CPRF School of Adaptive Computer Training. SACT students, in addition to learning job-applicable computer and customer service skills, also have the opportunity to earn Microsoft-approved certifications in both Word. Excel. and Outlook.
